

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method is provided for conducting a transaction over a computer network (such as the Internet) where the remote wallet server conducts a transaction with a merchant computer in a format substantially compliant with a chip card electronic commerce protocol or specification, regardless of whether or not the payment card of the 5 consumer involved in the transaction is a chip card.